MATT FELDHAUS

Patriot Boot Camp Director
DAV (Disabled American Veterans)

Matt Feldhaus, a service-connected disabled veteran of the U.S. Army National Guard, joined DAV in May 2025 as director of DAV Patriot Boot Camp, a transformative education and mentorship program for founders in the military and veteran community, including spouses, to succeed as entrepreneurs.

In this capacity, Feldhaus is responsible for leading the program's signature multiday cohorts; expanding entrepreneurial services for veterans; strengthening and growing its network of entrepreneurs and partners; overseeing the program's budget; and leveraging resources to better serve and empower disabled veterans and their families.

Feldhaus enlisted in the Pennsylvania Army National Guard in 2009 and trained as a human intelligence collector at Fort Huachuca, Arizona. He then completed the rigorous Arabic language program at the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center in Monterey, California.

After separating in 2015, Feldhaus returned home to Cincinnati, Ohio, and worked for a Fortune 500 company as a technical trainer, supporting employee development. Feldhaus later worked in leadership roles at organizations dedicated to serving veterans by helping them navigate essential resources and supporting mental health initiatives. Over the span of nearly eight years, he worked in various community engagement roles where he learned the needs of our nation's veterans and their families.

In addition to his years of experience serving veterans, Feldhaus holds a bachelor's degree in managerial economics from Allegheny College and an MBA from Syracuse University. He resides in Cincinnati, Ohio, and regularly volunteers his time and expertise to help veterans transition from military service into the corporate world. He is a life member of Chapter 19 in Erlanger, Kentucky.
