Post copy: Air Force veteran Marilyn Jackson is a DAV Patriot Boot Camp alumna and serial entrepreneur. She now serves as a mentor and on DAV National Veterans Entrepreneurship Council.

“It was probably the best thing that I could have done in terms of networking, in terms of setting direction and even deciding to incorporate my business. There were a lot of great resources and people that came to the table and they were all so approachable—so accomplished but so approachable—and they gave advice freely. So I think it was just a great, great decision to participate.”

Post copy: Air Force veteran Emille Bryant participated in the very first Patriot Boot Camp in 2012 and again in 2021. Bryant, the founder of go:IKIGAI—a consulting firm that helps small businesses with strategy, vision and leadership—returned for a special alumni event in 2022 to improve his skills, but also to help his fellow alumni.

“The relationships that I build, they last so much longer than anything I would have done outside of this. That’s the value that makes me want to come back over and over again.”

Post copy: Air Force veteran Marlie Andersch is the CEO and founder of rockITdata, a tech company focused on application development for contact centers. Andersch attended her first DAV Patriot Boot Camp in fall 2022.

“[DAV Patriot Boot Camp] has far exceeded my expectations. We get access to so many people from a mentorship perspective that gives you resources across the board. It’s not just application development, it’s marketing, it’s how to speak, it’s finance. So this has been tremendously well rounded.”
